COUNTY TEACHERS AT CHAUTAUQUA

Dr. Edwin E. Sparks Addresses Teachers on the Public School Question. Tickets Pledged for 1912 Chautauqua Reaches 350.

On Wednesday afternoon Dr. Edwin E. Sparks, President of Pennsylvania State College, addressed the teachers of Adams County Public Schools, at the Chautauqua tent. The annual meeting of teachers took place at 10 o'clock Thursday morning in Broad Chapel, where a formal session was held and current business disposed of.

During the afternoon Dr. Sparks and Dr. Douthat were the lecturers who met the teachers. The session opened at 1.30 with a musical prelude participated in by S. Cordose de Silva, Mrs. Scorer, Mr. Abbott, and Miss Bartholomay, accompanist. Dr. Sparks outlined the fundamental principles of teaching as a profession, and administered good sound advice to those engaged in this line of work. Dr. Douthat, a professor of West Virginia University, appeared in the uniform of a Confederate soldier, and delivered his lecture on the Battle of Gettysburg.

It is a common thing for the people of this community to hear a description of the battle, as told by guides and soldiers of the Union Army, but it is quite uncommon and a decided treat to hear the story told by one of General Pickett's captains, who was in the thickest of the fight. The evening session opened with a band concert, followed by Mr. da Silva accompanied by the popular pianist, Miss Bartholomay. Mr. da Silva is the son of former Ambassador, da Silva of Portugal, to Serbia. He is a graduate of Yale University and his work as an entertainer and soloist merits high praise.

Dr. Sparks was next introduced at the evening session by Dr. Douthat. His subject "Simple Virtues," was handled after the manner of "one who knows." In treating of "Simple Virtues," Dr. Sparks said, the Church, School and Home make up a tripod, on which depends the social life of America. Public Schools should be looked upon as an investment. People pay their taxes and help to provide educational institutions for boys and girls and they have a right to ask what return they are getting for their investment. The purpose and intention of Schools is often misconstrued, when a man makes an investment he wants to know, just what kind of investment he is handling, when he pays his taxes, he should know what nature of finished product is being offered to citizenship in the state. Our schools and colleges are diverging somewhat from the essential principles of good citizenship. Too much time is spent on finishing the product and not sufficient time in teaching the scholar the secrets of success, to serve, to toil and obey.

In these cultured times we have no servants. No men and women, they are all ladies and gentlemen. No person likes to be addressed as a servant and yet, it is one of the shining virtues to serve. No labor is dishonorable so long as it is honest. Every man in order to be fitted for life's work should start at the bottom, but if he always remains at the bottom that is his fault. In the recent "Russo-Japanese War," it was clearly demonstrated who were the superiors in the art of warfare, and the secret of their attainments was their willingness to serve. We will never have obedience in schools until it is thoroughly instituted in the homes, obedience and service begin with the home teachings. Dr. Sparks was quoted in a paper sometime ago as having said, that he was not in favor of college and school athletics. This statement is absurd, he insists on athletics or some other form of exercise, but what he does not favor is the college boy's idea of athletics. Where nine or eleven men form the team and get all the exercise while the remainder injure themselves yelling through clouds of cigarette smoke. The first idea to be instilled into the mind of American children should be obedience and their training encouraged along lines so that it can be said of each one, "I have done the state some service."

GRANGERS' PICNIC NEXT WEEK

Effort is Being Made to Have Senator La Follette Deliver Address. Large List of Attractions. Creasy Will Be There.

Fair weather prevailing, the thirty eighth annual Grangers' Interstate picnic exhibition at William's Grove next week, is expected to be the biggest in years. The Cumberland Valley and the Philadelphia and Reading railroads are making preparations for the handling of thousands of people.

Exhibitors of farm machinery have started to install their booths during the past few days, and by Saturday everything will be ready for the opening on Monday morning. The band of the Pennsylvania Railroad Young Men's Christian Association, Enola, has been engaged to give a concert in the afternoon and evening on next Sunday, so the opening will really take place on the first day of the week.

Miss Edna F. Spahr, who has rendered a number of solos at the Enola carnival, will sing with the Enola band next Sunday.

There will be a big exhibition of dogs and poultry, and the buildings will be filled with horticultural exhibits, household utensils, attractive novelties and musical instruments. There will be a number of other attractions, including a 50 foot ferris wheel, merry-go-round, napha launch and other boating. A European trained wild animal arena and London Zoo will be on the grounds.

During the day the platform in the auditorium will be occupied by prominent grangers, agriculturists and statesmen, who will deliver addresses. On Thursday, the National and State Grange Day, William T. Creasy, master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, and other grange officials, will be in attendance. Efforts are being made by the committee in charge to have United States Senator La Follette to be present and make addresses during the afternoon.

On Thursday evening there will be a grand concert and vaudeville entertainment and another concert will be given on Friday evening. The singer band has been engaged to give concerts during the entire week. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening there will be illustrated lectures by Frank R. Roberson, who has been at the grove for the past several years.

RICE-SHEELY

On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock Professor George M. Rice, of Arendtsville was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth Sheely, daughter of Ephriam Sheely, of the same place. The wedding took place in the parlor of the bride's home at Arendtsville, in the presence of relatives and immediate friends. Floral decorations of roses, ferns and hydrangeas adorned the house, with a chain of ferns and roses artistically arranged, leading to the floral canopy where the nuptials were solemnized by Rev. D. T. Koser.

Miss Beulah Minter, of Arendtsville, was maid of honor and Charles Raffensperger, the attendant for the groom.

The bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, rendered by Mark K. Eckert, of Gettysburg.

After the nuptials a wedding luncheon was served to about 40 invited guests. Prof. and Mrs. Rice left Friday morning on an extended wedding tour.

ECKENRODE-BITTINGER

On Wednesday, August 23d, at Arendtsville, Rev. David Koser united in marriage George H. Eckenrode and Miss Osia O. Bittinger, both of Arendtsville.

EXPECTS DRY TO WIN

Shippensburg will have another spirited battle on its hands at the general election in November next when the question of the sale of liquor in that town under a license will be decided at the polls. For the past ten or more years it has been a "no-license" town, the last vote being taken three years ago. It is predicted that the "drys" will win out.

TROUBLE ON WEST MIDDLE STREET

Mrs. Kate Stonesifer has Her Neighbor, Roy Plank, Arrested on Surety of Peace Charge. Says He Threatened to Shoot Children.

Two residents of West Middle street, were scheduled to tell their troubles before Squire Harnish at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. Mrs. Kate Stonesifer and Roy Plank, who drives a delivery wagon for the People's Cash Store are neighbors on Middle street. Some children of the neighborhood annoyed Plank, and out of this grew a surety of the peace charge.

It appears that trouble has been brewing for a long time but was culminated Thursday. Mrs. Stonesifer says Plank has frequently swore at the children and threatened them. Thursday morning, she says, Plank cried, "I'll kill the little blankety-blanks," and later went to the second story of his house where he procured a pistol and shot out of the window a number of times. The children in question were supposed to be standing near their home at this time. Mrs. Stonesifer declares she is afraid of Plank and swore out the warrant for his arrest Thursday afternoon. Quite a little excitement has been created by the affair in the west end of town and the outcome of the hearing is awaited with interest.

OLD-TIME REMEDY
DARKENS THE HAIR
Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

From time immemorial, sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost everyone knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair, for curing dandruff and falling hair, and for making the hair grow.

In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date drug store can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories. The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this sort called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. People's Drug Store, Special Agent for Gettysburg.

ACROSS OCEAN IN BALLOON
Vanaman Preparing For Feat That Walter Wellman Attempted.
Atlantic City, Aug. 25.—Melvin Vanaman, who will try to accomplish what Walter Wellman failed in doing last fall—namely, cross the Atlantic in a balloon—is in this city supervising the assembling of the car and making other preparations for the trip.

The big gas bag, which was shipped from Akron, O., has arrived, and was placed in the hangar at the hotel.

Vanaman gained so much practical knowledge on the Wellman trip that he believes that he can carry his project through successfully. He says he has learned that it will be to his advantage to start with or immediately following a storm. Then the air eddies or whirlpools will aid him in following the track of the wind lanes.

No date has been fixed for his departure, but it will be some time in the latter part of September or early in October.

AUTO JOB FOR GERAGHTY
Newport Heiress' Husband Will Go to Work in Springfield.
Springfield, Mass., Aug. 25.—Jack Geraghty and his heiress bride will make Springfield their home for a time, at least, as the result of two offers which have been made him by local automobile manufacturing concerns.

Geraghty's familiarity with the automobile business and his apparent decision over taking up any of the opportunities that have been coming in since he came to this city led to the making of the offers by the automobile concerns here.

"I have been considering two excellent offers made to me by automobile manufacturing concerns," said Geraghty, "and I haven't decided which one I will accept."

Geraghty's decision to go into the automobile business sets at rest the various rumors of his getting into the theatrical game.

HER AFFINITY A KANSAS POET
Great Surprise Expressed by Writer's Friends and Co-Workers in the Social Colony at Arden, Del., at His Proposed Action.

New York, Aug. 25.—Upton Sinclair, novelist and socialist, has sent a statement to the newspapers that his wife had left him to go on the stage. In his statement he said that his wife could be found in this city at the home of her father.

He declared he had had a stormy interview with her there this week, after following her to this city from the single tax colony at Arden, Del.

Sinclair's statement traces his wife's present ambition to go on the stage to her sojourn at the Battle Creek sanitarium in 1907. He says that recently she renewed her acquaintance with Harry Kemp, a Kansas poet, whom she met at this time.

Kemp, according to Sinclair, came to Arden, Del., a month ago, and it was due to his influence that Mrs. Sinclair decided to go on the stage.

Kemp, Sinclair says, told him that he was about to forsake poetry for forensic. Sinclair indicates that he might view his wife's ambitions to be "independent," as she stated it to him, more clearly if Kemp had not played so prominent a part in arousing it.

The conclusion being that Sinclair intended to enter suit against his wife, he was asked when proceedings would be instituted. He settled the question by saying:

"As soon as I can get into touch with my lawyers and have the necessary papers prepared it is my intention to enter suit against my wife, Meta F. Sinclair, for divorce."

Mrs. Sinclair was Miss Meta H. Palmer, daughter of William H. Palmer. She married Sinclair in 1901, when he was starting out as a writer, and when he had made no notable success. She accompanied him to Chicago and lived with him in a tenement among the slaughter-house workers while he was writing "The Jungle," the first work to bring him any considerable financial return.

The action of Mr. Sinclair in giving out such a statement, or in bringing a suit for divorce from his wife will be a great surprise to his friends and coworkers in the social colony of which he is the head.

He has repeatedly given his views on the marriage vow and ties, and some of these views seem to indicate a belief on his part that husband and wife could at any time separate and go different ways should they find the marriage yoke burdensome.

On one occasion Mr. Sinclair said: "When my wife and I fell in love with each other we talked the whole marriage business over very conscientiously. We both hated the idea of being tied together by either a religious or legal ceremony, and we tried to make up our minds to set the right kind of an example to the world."

Married Women Bought.
"But we knew Mrs. Sinclair's father and mother would go raving crazy if we did what our consciences told us was right. So, to ease their minds, we let some one mumble a few words over us and made them happy."

"We are married and now we have seen the world and know a great many married people and we are a good deal ashamed of being married ourselves."

"Marriage in this day is nothing but legalized slavery. That is the most polite word to call it. I fancy the average married woman is bought just as much as any horse or dog is bought."

Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair were married in October, 1900. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the Rev. Minot J. Savage, in East Thirty-fourth street.

It was a happy ending to a romance which had its inception when Mr. Sinclair was working his way through the College of the City of New York. One morning as he was walking in Central Park he met a woman whom he knew and with her was Miss Palmer, a very beautiful girl.

She was a dreamer and idealist of artistic and literary tastes and was attracted by the young man who was bravely attempting to carve out a career for himself. Her friends believe that she exercised great influence upon his work both before and after their marriage.

Wed a Diplomat.
St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 25.—St. Paul society is a flutter over the marriage of Richard Edward Blakeley, first secretary of the Tuikish minister at Berlin, and Miss Josephine Kalman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kalman, of that city. More than a thousand invitations were issued for the ceremony, which was performed in the sanctuary of the cathedral by Bishop Lawler, of St. Paul.

THREE MURDERED AND HOUSE FIRED
Son Accused of Killing Both Parents and Brother.

Boonville, Ind., Aug. 25.—William Lee, twenty-one years old, who was to have been married last night, is in jail here on a charge of murdering his father, mother and brother and with setting fire to the house to conceal the crime.

Richard Lee, the father, aged fifty; his mother, aged fifty-two, and Clarence, a brother, aged seventeen, were found in bed with their skulls crushed when firemen entered the house after putting out the flames.

The Lee family sold some property in Newburgh, and had about $300 in money in the house. This money has not been found, and robbery is believed to have been the motive for the murder.

All three of the victims of the murderer were killed by blows on the head, either from a hatchet or similar instrument. The house was then fired and the bodies were badly burned by the fire which practically destroyed the building.

An alarm was turned in, and the firemen found the doors and windows of the Lee home locked. The firemen broke into the house and found the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Lee in one bed, the young man's body being on another. Fire had destroyed the bedding and blackened the bodies, and it was not until the flames were extinguished that the murders were discovered.

William Lee, the older son, was arrested at the orders of Coroner Farley, who had taken charge of the bodies. Lee said he had escaped from the burning house and turned in the fire alarm. He said he was asleep in a room adjoining that of his parents and was awakened by the smoke which entered the room.

When the American troops were fighting their way across Cuba, Captain Timberlake, commanding a party of fankers, noticed a coffin lying not far from the road.

That evening in camp Captain Timberlake was chatting upon the events of the day with the adjutant and the major of his regiment, talking about who had been killed, who wounded, how the Spaniards fought and how they had the advantage of the Americans in the matter of arms and smokeless powder, when Timberlake spoke of the strange sight of a coffin lying beside the road.

If men have not the curiosity of women, said the statement has been deleted by the latter, they have a trait equally peculiar. Men, especially those who lead eventful lives, are prone to bet about everything which is a matter of opinion or hazard. The question came up between these officers whether there was a corpse in the coffin or whether there was not. One of the party had noticed a cemetery on the way not far from the line of march and suggested that a funeral had been interrupted by the fight, the mourners had fled and the coffin spilled out of the hearse. There was doubtless an unburied corpse in it.

Now, the outcome of this suggestion did not result, as might have been expected, in the burial of a corpse, but a bet. The major made the suggestion, and Captain Timberlake offered to bet him $10 even that the coffin was empty.

The stakes having been put up, Captain Timberlake called Pat Mulcahey, a recruit picked up just before leaving the States, and told him to go back half a mile and look out not far from a bridge over a creek for a coffin. He was to discover whether it contained a corpse or whether it was empty.

A full moon stood about an hour high and made all nearly as light as day. A desultory firing was still going on, but had nearly died out. Pat crossed the bridge and about a hundred yards beyond saw the moonlight reflected from a number of points on the brass ornaments on the coffin. Pat went on till he got near enough to see what the object was, then stopped. A coffin probably with a dead body in it at night in a lonely spot did not appeal to him. He was wondering how he could determine what he had been ordered to discover without getting any closer to the casket when the lid seemed to lift of itself, and the moon lighted up a white face.

"Howdy mother!" cried Pat, crossing himself, and, turning, beat a hasty retreat. Reaching the other side of the creek, he paused for another look behind him. What he saw froze the marrow in his bones. The corpse was coming with its coffin on its shoul der.

Pat tried to run, but for a time his legs refused to carry him. It was only when the specter reached the blither side of the bridge and seemed to be coming right down on him that his terror had a different effect, and with a howl he set off like the wind for camp.

Captain Timberlake, the major and the others were sitting in a circle waiting for the decision of the bet when Pat approached. As he drew near them the soldier reassured itself, and he slowed his steps till he came down to a walk. Approaching the group, he saluted.

"Well, Pat," said his commander, "who has won?"

"If ye please, sir, what's the bet?"

"The major bets the coffin has a corpse in it. I bet that it is empty."

"The corpse was in it when I went there, and now it's out of it."

"What do you mean?"

"The corpse got out when I was lookin' at the coffin, and now he's comin' with it on his shoulder."

"There was a burst of laughter.

"O! got me pay in me pocket," pulling out a roll of bills. "O! I bet it all that he is."

Several men standing about, ready to take advantage of the greenhorn, covered his money 10 to 1. The bets had barely been made when a man with a coffin on his shoulder approached and asked half in Spanish and half in English where he could get a pass.

There was another burst of laughter.

The captain looked around for Pat. He was nowhere to be seen.

"I've won and Pat has won," said Timberlake. "Now we'll hear this man's story. But first let me tell you something I happen to know. The poor class of Cubans hire coffins for their dead. The body is placed in the coffin before the funeral and taken to the cemetery in it. There it is removed and buried without any covering. Since the lid is not screwed down they use hinges. This man was not going to a funeral; he was carrying the casket away from a cemetery after the corpse had been taken out of it."

"You are right," said the Cuban. "I was carrying the coffin from the cemetery when the battle began. To escape the bullets I lifted the lid and got in side. I stayed there till the firing had nearly died away, when I proceeded on my journey. But now there are soldiers everywhere, and I would like a pass to get home."

He was sent (leaving his lead till his return to headquarters, where he secured his pass.

Pat was the chief winner, all bets being decided in his favor.

Farm and Garden

SILOS LIKE THIS, $275.

Foolish to Farm Without Them Now.

It does not pay to devote high priced land for long periods to pasture and the production of hay. The land can be put to more profitable use. Such is the testimony of George P. Grout, the dairy expert of Minnesota.

During the last few years more silos have been built than have previously been constructed altogether. The more prosperous farmers are often supplied with two good silos.

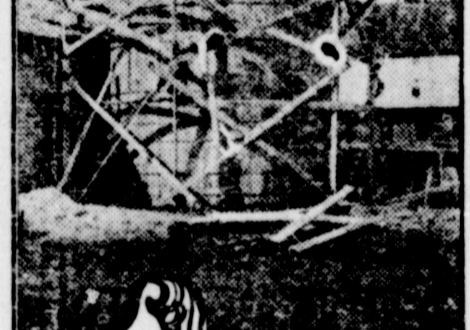

The silo, Professor Grout asserts, practically increases the producing capacity of the farm at least 10 per cent and often more.

A 100 acre farm with a silo will produce as much revenue as one of 180 acres without.

The first cost of a silo, like that of a dwelling house, a barn or a team, should be considered part of the initial investment, and if one's capital is limited it is better to buy a farm smaller by 10 per cent rather than dispense with a silo.

The producing value of a silo on fifty dollar land would be equal to that of twenty acres added to the 100 acre farm, or $1,000. On $100 land it would be $2,000. This is a low estimate, for the stock carrying capacity of the farm will often be increased fully 25 per cent by the addition of a silo.

As compared with its producing value the cost of constructing the silo is small. Round wooden silos cost from $1.50 to $3 per ton of capacity; those of stone, brick or cement from $2 to $4. It has been shown by actual experiment in Minnesota that, working co-operatively in the purchase of materials, etc., a number of farmers in a locality may erect on each of their farms a stave silo, similar to the one in the illustration, of 140 to 150 tons capacity for about $275.

SENATOR BANKHEAD.

SENATOR BANKHEAD IS LIVING UP TO HIS PLEDGES.

Good Roads Advocate of Alabama Has Bill For Better Highways.

Senator John H. Bankhead of Alabama, one of the leading good roads advocates of the nation, fought his way into the United States senate on a platform pledging him to work for good roads and river and harbor improvement, and he is standing true to all of his pre-election pledges. Recently he introduced in the senate of the United States the following bill:

"To provide for an experiment in the improvement of certain highways by the secretary of agriculture, in co-operation with the postmaster general, and for other purposes.

"Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled that there is hereby appropriated out of the treasury the sum of $500,000, not otherwise appropriated, to be expended by the secretary of agriculture, in co-operation with the postmaster

GET OUT OF THE AVERAGE.

Average farming is not now and never has been profitable, but it is the only kind of farming that average farmers can do. Improvement in men is reflected in all their works. Better men can be developed by teaching children the simple science of agriculture. To raise the average of crop yields involves an uplift of society as a whole. Education is a national problem.

GOOD ROADS.

Good roads contribute to the glory of the country, give employment to idle workmen, distribute the necessities of life, the products of the fields, the forests and factories, encourage energy and make mankind better, greater and grander.

ROAD BUILDING IN OHIO.

"Boosters" Successful in Getting Legislation to Pass Bills.

The Ohio Good Roads federation has won part of the fight which it started in January, when it proposed the following legislative plans:

First—The reorganization of the highway department and creation of the bureau of construction, maintenance and repair and bridges.

Second—State supervision of all roads constructed in whole or in part by state aid money.

Third—The perpetual maintenance of state aid roads by the highway department.

Fourth—The inauguration of the inter-county system of roads connecting important commercial centers in the state and making all necessary surveys and estimates for the same.

Fifth—A levy of one-half mill on the taxable property of the state to create a fund available in 1913 to construct the inter-county system.

All of the above, with the exception of the latter, are provided for in senate bill 165 by Senator McGuire, which is now a law.

The road enthusiasts will now go forth with renewed energy in a state wide campaign for the proper construction and maintenance of roads, for the economical expenditure of all moneys appropriated for road purposes, and will present to the constitutional convention which will assemble next January a plan to raise money necessary to complete the inter-county system, which plan will equitably distribute the cost of the same on all the taxpayers of the state.

Cart System For County Pikes.

The cart system of taking care of the roads in Knox county, Tenn., will first be tried upon the Fawcett and Jackson pikes, according to the action of the Knox county road commission at a recent meeting. If it works successfully it will be placed on other pikes.

Recent weas have seen considerable discussion in the public press relative to the efficacy of prayer in bringing rain. While there is just about as much evidence to show that "effectual fervent prayer" will bring rain as there is that it will not, the prudent man will keep right on stirring his dust maul and conserving the subsoil moisture along with his praying. Then if a rain does come he is just so much the better off.

Plowing the stubble as soon as the grain is cut is not only to be commended as a means of preventing myriads of weeds from seeding, but in sections where damage to wheat by the Hessian fly is possible it tends to reduce this pest to a minimum. If volunteer wheat appears in the field it should be disked under, and the seeding of the wheat should be deferred as late as will be consistent with the grain getting a good foothold before cold weather sets in.

The last horse bus has disappeared in London. The service rendered by an army of these outfits in the days gone by is now performed by 1,500 motorbuses.

Ice cold drinks are refreshing from the standpoint of immediate physical comfort, but taken in large quantities there is no getting around the fact that they are a tax on one's digestive apparatus.

That a better day is dawning in China is forcefully shown in the report from one of the western provinces of the crop, where 1,000,000 acres formerly given over to opium culture are now growing wheat.

The small boy who has not seen the elephants and kangaroo in the big circus parade by the time he is ten or eleven years old has missed a legitimate part of his training, and his dad is open to pretty severe criticism.

A suggestion made a short time since in these notes is worth repetition—to the effect that any feeder who is so fixed that he can finish cattle, hogs or sheep for market during the next eight or nine months is sure to be well paid for his efforts. As a result of widespread drought many sections have been virtually depopulated of the kinds of stock mentioned. This has meant in the past a glutting of markets with underfed stuff in poor condition, which has tended to demoralize prices on all grades. Now, however, with most of this emergency stock sold, prices are improving, and they give promise of reaching very satisfactory levels.

Many a husbandman who has leveled land for purposes of irrigation has been surprised at the fact that the growth of crops was slight on soil from which the surface had been scraped, he naturally supposing that such soil, being new, would also be rich and cause plant growth. The meager growth noted is due not to a lack of fertility in the soil so much as to an improper physical condition and lack of humus or decaying vegetable matter. Such soil should be fertilized with barnyard manure and should be sown to some legume, such as vetch, soy beans or peas, and this growth turned under. Such treatment will give the necessary humus and make the soil productive.

Just as the cotton boll weevil was a blessing in disguise to the cotton grower, in that it showed him the benefits of a diversified agriculture, so the present droughty season, following on the heels of that of last year, bids fair to be a godsend to the corn belt farmer, for in the absence of sufficient hay it has practically forced him to erect silos in order to realize a maximum value from his corn crop. Hundreds of farmers are installing these fodder savers, and silo companies are swamped with orders. One season will be enough to prove their worth, and hereafter they will be filled whether the season be wet or dry. It is likely that in years to come many farmers will look back and thank the drought of 1911 for forcing them to erect silos.
